Council tells PPD to stop working with ICE

City Council unanimously approved a resolution Thursday calling for city police to stop sharing information with U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement under a controversial program.

ICE launched Secure Communities in 2008, requiring state and local police to turn over fingerprints for everyone they arrest with the goal of deporting dangerous illegal immigrants.

With the police department's agreement set to expire Aug. 31, Council members claim the partnership should be discontinued because it is discouraging immigrants to report crimes.

"The proof is in the numbers. We are unfairly deporting folks and not providing people the due process the American Constitution allows for," said Councilwoman Maria Quinones-Sanchez. District Attorney Seth Williams said last year he favors the collaboration.

"ICE should have the ability to know about illegal immigrants who commit crimes in our city," he said then. SOLOMON D. LEACH

Ignored cemetery irks families of buried dead

City may get some initial answers when court briefs filed next Friday But attorney for last surviving link to Mount Moriah's deceased governing body says she's not liable

As the deadline approaches next week for filing briefs in the unusual case of the cemetery history forgot, Mount Moriah in Southwest Philadelphia, an attorney for the only woman with a connection to the graveyard's managing board said she's not responsible.

The city, however, will tell the court they think Lydia Jones, an elderly widow of a man who when he died was the last member of Mount Moriah's governing body, is responsible.

"The city has asked for a significant fee against Mount Moriah Cemetery Company and will further ask that Lydia Jones be held responsible," said Deputy Managing Director Brian Abernathy.

But Jones' attorney James Kutz says she is infirm and has not even been in Pennsylvania the past 10 years, except to appear at a June 7 court hearing.

"We laud the city in its effort to try to deal with the condition of the cemetery," Kutz said. "Lydia Jones is not the proper person to deal with the issue. She is a retired employee with Parkinson's disease and has lived in Maryland for the past 10 years and has never been the owner and cannot be legally responsible."

Gary Buss, president of the Pennsylvania Cemetery Cremation and Funeral Association, said Mount Moriah is a unique case. He said he's never heard of a cemetery, in Pennsylvania or the nation, as large and old as this as far as neglect and the mystery surrounding who owns it.

▶ Philadelphia officials say they are seeking a significant amount from Jones for upkeep of unkempt Mount Moriah. They may also ask for a new "receiver" to take over management.

Will loved ones be exhumed?

Bernard Bretherick, whose brother William, killed in action in the Pacific during World War II and subsequently buried at Mount Moriah, says he wants to have William's remains removed to Indiantown Gap.

He said he may load up his van with measuring tape and weed wackers and drive to Mount Moriah with two older brothers, both in their 80s, to try and locate the grave, which Bernard and a brother couldn't find when they visited the grounds earlier in the year.

"How could they jump up and leave like that and not notify anyone?" said Rose Lloyd of West Philadelphia, who has a brother and sister-in-law buried at the cemetery. Another brother of Lloyd, who has attempted recently to visit the graves, said the weeds are so high he doesn't know if the tombstone is still standing, she said.

"What can I do? What should I do?" she asked.

Nutter vetoes Council's DROP plan

"He actually did that? It doesn't make any sense. It's a dumb move. The veto reverts DROP to its costlier, old form — which more employees could now sign up. I guess it's an early Christmas present."
JOHN MCNESBY, FOP LODGE 5 PRESIDENT

A week after City Council overwhelming approved a revised DROP program, Mayor Michael Nutter vetoed the legislation. "The only DROP bill I will sign is one that eliminates DROP," he said Thursday.

Dueling DROP-related legislation was introduced in May. Nutter's proposal, which remains in committee, would eliminate the controversial pension program, citing a report that found it cost taxpayers $258 million since 1999 despite cost-neutral billing.

Council's legislation — which passed 14-3 — didn't eliminate DROP but required employees to work two years beyond minimum retirement age and, among other things, calculate the interest rate to ensure cost-neutrality. Council needs 12 votes to override the veto.

Property tax hike finalized

CITY HALL. City Council gave final approval Thursday to a property-tax increase that will provide the city school district with $36 million in extra funding.

Council voted in favor of the 3.85 percent increase by a vote of 11-6, and the bill will now go to Mayor Michael Nutter, who is expected to sign it. Despite the split vote, many called it a win for students. METRO/SDL

Liberty Medal goes to outgoing Gates

Retiring US Defense Secretary will receive high honor in September He has distinction of only DOD chief under Dem and GOP presidents, Bush and Obama

Robert Gates, who is scheduled to retire next week, has served eight presidents during his five-decade career as director of the CIA and the civilian head of the U.S. Armed Forces.

He also has the distinction of being the only defense secretary to serve presidents of different parties, having served under President George W. Bush and President Barack Obama.

"Secretary Gates has made unparalleled contributions to national security, defense and intelligence — while transcending party politics in order to put our nation's best interest first," Center President and CEO David Eisner said.

Is anyone listening to parents?

Parents want what's best for our kids. But the Philadelphia School Reform Commission (SRC) is planning on drastic budget cuts that will lay off thousands of public school teachers and slash essential programs.

The consequences of proposed budget cuts include:

- larger class sizes
- compromised school safety and classroom discipline
- fewer programs and services
- worse learning conditions for our children

We need new priorities that put children first. Parents and teachers are fighting for Philadelphia's schools. Call the SRC at 215/400-4010. Tell them to work in good faith with our teachers and invest in our classrooms.

Let's stand united for our children, for our teachers and for public education.

TOM FOREMAN
POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT FOR CNN

THE GERBILS OF WRATH

If you've spent any time in the Great American Gerbil Wheel that is the modern office, you can not be surprised by the new survey showing how unhappy people are with their jobs.

Mercer, a company that specializes in business management, talked to a wide sample of workers and found that a third of them want to quit right now. Another 23 percent hate their places of employment. And at least one guy in Tulsa is considering stealing the men's room key on his way out.

CNN=POLITICS

Hide the cutlery in the snack room, my friends; it's not pretty.

It makes sense, of course. With unemployment soaring, most people can't just change jobs when conditions become unbearable. Bosses know that; and accordingly, they're less concerned than usual about making onerous demands. On top of which, they are often afraid for their own jobs, so they justify their tyranny. Vacations are deferred to avoid being caught in the next layoff. Sick days are untaken. Complaints go unregistered.

Quoted

"Their jobs are not necessarily a lot worse than they were, it's just that people feel trapped."
FOREMAN

Toss in the foreclosure crisis and spikes in consumer prices, and you get the second part of the equation: People are increasingly terrified that any fall from the employment rolls could prove not merely painful, but possibly economically fatal.

Add it all up and before you know it, you are streaking as fast as you can in the spinning wire wheel without even a hint of progress. Ask the person next to you what's up, and in all likelihood she'll say, "Shut up. Just keep running."

That's why people are upset. Their jobs are not necessarily a lot worse than they were — after all, who seriously expects decent management these days — it's just that people feel trapped. Most of us will put up with a lot of misery if we are confident that we really can walk out when the situation becomes impossible. (Heck, that's a practically a cornerstone of marriage.) But workplaces aren't about that right now.

These days having a job is all about pushing hard, keeping your head low and apparently building up bitterness — which I suspect will boil up like a bad scene from "Willard," if we gerbils can ever open the cage doors again.

Republicans walk out of budget talks

Hopes for budget-cut deal dashed as top GOPers set up talks between Obama, Boehner If default occurs, would be bad news for global economy

Republicans walked out of budget talks on Thursday, setting up a showdown between President Barack Obama and House Speaker John Boehner over how to extend U.S. borrowing and avoid a looming debt default.

Vice President Joe Biden and a handful of lawmakers had hoped to reach a budget-cutting deal that would allow Congress to sign off on continued borrowing. But Republicans quit unexpectedly after saying the group had reached an impasse over tax increases sought by Democrats.

"It appears that Cantor has obviously had enough of these negotiations and Kyl followed suit, but there has been progress made. It's not as if nothing has happened."
SEN. HARRY REID

"I believe it is time for the president to speak clearly and resolve the tax issue," said House Majority Leader Eric Cantor, who had represented House Republicans in the talks. Republican Sen. Jon Kyl also pulled out.

Cantor and other negotiators had hoped to reach a budget deal by next week that would give lawmakers political cover to raise the $14.3 trillion debt ceiling before Aug. 2, when the Treasury Department has said it will run out of money to pay the country's bills.

Default could occur if Congress does not act by then, pushing the United States back into recession and sending markets plunging around the globe.

Obama will now probably have to hammer out a deal with Boehner, the top Republican in Washington, and Senate Democratic Leader Harry Reid — the same trio that took the government to the brink of a shutdown in an earlier budget battle this spring.

"I think it's in the hands of the speaker and the president — and sadly, probably me," Reid said at a news conference. No initial meeting has been set, he said. REUTERS

Maid looks for other DSK vics

The woman who accused Dominique Strauss-Kahn of attempted rape and sexual assault in New York hired a Paris lawyer to look for women in France who may have been victimized by the former International Monetary Fund chief.

Kenneth P. Thompson, a former federal prosecutor who is representing the accuser in New York, hired Thibault de Montbrial to provide legal support, the French lawyer said today.

"I am working with him, I am the contact for his firm in France, notably to see if there exist other victims of Mr. Strauss-Kahn," de Montbrial said in a telephone interview. REUTERS

Strauss-Kahn, 62, was arrested May 14 and later indicted on seven counts, including criminal sex act, attempted rape, sexual abuse, unlawful imprisonment and forcible touching.

Marine charged in shootings

WASHINGTON. U.S. prosecutors on Thursday charged a Marine Corps reservist with shootings at four military buildings around Washington, including the Pentagon, and said they found he had bomb-making materials.

Yonathan Melaku, 22, was apprehended Friday near Arlington National Cemetery, and authorities found bullet casings and small bags of a powder (later identified as ammonium nitrate) in his backpack. REUTERS

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Hacker pleads guilty to creating AT&T-iPad breach

A computer hacker pleaded guilty to helping write malicious code that let him breach AT&T Inc. servers and steal personal data belonging to 120,000 Apple Inc. iPad subscribers, U.S. prosecutors said.

Daniel Spitler, 26, admitted to one count of conspiracy to gain unauthorized access to computers and one count of identity theft at a Thursday hearing before U.S. District Judge Susan Wigenton in Newark, N.J., federal court.

Spitler could face a 12- to 18-month prison term under federal sentencing guidelines, which a judge need not follow. The San Francisco resident is free on bail, and his sentencing is scheduled for Sept. 28.

120K
Number of Apple Inc. iPad subscribers affected by the hack according to U.S. prosecutors

Prosecutors in January accused Spitler and co-defendant Andrew Auernheimer, 25, of using an "account slurper" to conduct a "brute force" attack over five days last June to extract data about iPad users who used the Internet through AT&T's network.

According to prosecutors, Spitler admitted to being a member of Goatse Security, a group of "self-professed Internet 'trolls'" who try to disrupt online content and services.

They said Auernheimer was also affiliated with Goatse, and that creators of the account slurper leaked stolen e-mail addresses and other data to the website Gawker.

Possible victims of the hacking included public figures such as New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg, anchor Diane Sawyer of Walt Disney Co.'s ABC News, movie mogul Harvey Weinstein, and Chicago Mayor Rahm Emanuel, prosecutors said. REUTERS

Harry Potter e-books on the way, but no sequel

The seven Harry Potter novels will be available as ebooks in October, author J.K. Rowling said on Thursday at the launch of a new interactive online website that will allow readers to navigate through the wizard stories.

Rowling gave her clearest indication yet that she would not write an eighth Harry Potter story to follow the final installment published in 2007 by Bloomsbury in Britain and Scholastic in the U.S.

"I do have closure with Harry," Rowling told reporters at the launch of the Pottermore website (www.pottermore.com).

"I have no plans to write another novel. I'm pretty sure I'm done on the novel front ... But it was fun while it lasted."

Such is the scale of Rowling's fan base and the success of her novels that any indication of a new novel would be major news in the publishing and cinema world. REUTERS

This is my story

I used to be more active. I used to run, play basketball, tennis, football… I was more than a weekend warrior. I woke up every day filled with life! But now, in my late 30's, I spend most of my day in the office or sacked out in front of the TV. I rarely get to the gym – not that I don't like working out, it's the nagging pain in my knees and ankles. Low energy and laziness has got me down. My energy has fizzled and I'm embarrassed to admit that I've grown a spare tire (I'm sure it's hurting my love life). Nowadays I rarely walk. For some reason it's just harder now. Gravity has done a job on me.

Customer Satisfaction Speaks for Itself!
4 out of 5 customers purchase a 2nd pair within 3 months.

Wear them and you'll know

That's what my doctor recommended. He said, "Gravity Defyer shoes are pain-relieving shoes." He promised they would change my life–like they were a fountain of youth. "They ease the force of gravity, relieving stress on your heels, ankles, knees and back. They boost your energy by propelling you forward."
The longer he talked, the more sense it made. He was even wearing a pair himself!

Excitement swept through my body like a drug

I received my package from GravityDefyer.com and rushed to tear it open like a kid at Christmas. Inside I found the most amazing shoes I had ever seen – different than most running shoes. Sturdy construction. Cool colors. Nice lines… I was holding a miracle of technology. This was the real thing.

WEEKEND

And you said

Fifty random peeps can be wrong

We asked you what you thought the "song of the summer" was. Overwhelmingly you chose Adele's "Rolling in the Deep." But we'd be remiss if we didn't correct you here. People who are calling "Rolling in the Deep" the "song of the summer" are mistaken: What they don't understand is that "Rolling in the Deep" is the song of the year!

HOTTEST SONGS OF SUMMER

Here's what you'll hear at the beach, on the road trip and at the barbecues for the next few months

There are no awards for the "song of summer," just the honor of worming your tune into the collective consciousness during the most nostalgic season. To achieve the "song of summer" status requires more than the hallmarks of a hit during any other time. It helps to have at least two of the following: laid-back vibe, a seize-the-night message, whistling, funny lyrics, a booze and/or pop culture reference. You also need a quotable line for various summer situations. When you get to the keg party and it's all dudes, the chorus of "Where Them Girls At" is a good start.

PAT HEALY
pat.healy@metro.us

"The Lazy Song" by Bruno Mars
The formula is Jason Mraz plus Sublime, but it's hard to dock Bruno points for borrowing since this song is about being lazy. The beat just begs for a traffic jam where you can roll down the window and thump your hand on the outside of the car door. Anyone within earshot will whistle along.

"I Wanna Go" by Britney Spears
Britney has always been great at looking at what other people are doing and saying, "Hey, that looks cool. Let me try!" and totally kicking ass at it. Here she runs away with the catchy whistling and the "I wanna go all the way-ay-ay/Takin' out my freak tonight" party message.

"The Edge of Glory" by Lady Gaga
Like a great summer night, this song is all about living in the moment. There's no whistling, but the line "Another shot before we kiss the other side," can function as a requisite booze reference, and the solo by the late, great Clarence Clemons is just begging for thumb-to-mouth air sax.

"Tonight Tonight" by Hot Chelle Rae
This one has everything a song of summer should: Huge "woah-oh-oh" chorus, lazy beat, pop culture references galore ("I woke up with a strange tattoo, not sure how I got it ... And it kinda looks just like you, mixed with Zach Galifianakis"), funny lyrics (see previous quote) and that carpe noche chorus of "We're going at it tonight/ There's a party on the rooftop, top of the world."

"Wetsuit" by the Vaccines
The Vaccines sound like a cooler Coldplay here. With its repeated incantation of "we all got old at breakneck speed," this song was tailor-made for a yearbook quote.

"Super Bass" by Nicki Minaj/ "Where Them Girls At" by David Guetta featuring Flo Rida and Nicki Minaj
There's something so likable about Minaj's voice. Whether singing or rapping, she's dirty and funny, and in these two jams, she effortlessly references Led Zep, Slick Rick and Peabo Bryson (!). The line you'll be singing: "Tell him who the eff I is."

"Last Friday Night (T.G.I.F)" by Katy Perry
"Pictures of last night ended up online, I'm screwed ... It's a blacked out blur, but I'm pretty sure it ruled." That's a good summary of this hilarious hangover ditty. If you go all summer without one "T.G.I.F." chant, you're not alive.

"Pumped Up Kicks" by Foster the People
The third whistler on the list is actually a dark song about taking revenge on bullies. But when Mark Foster, who sounds like he's talking from an interrogation room during the verse, bursts into the celebratory chorus, it's easy to sing along, even if you don't realize you're saying, "you'd better run faster than my bullet."

"Pricetag" by Jessie J (with B.o.B.)
Jessie J just wants to make the world dance. Singing in a sexy Brit plea against a chill "Ooh Child" groove, J calls for a pre-MTV world. "We need to take it back in time/ When music made us all unite/And it wasn't low blows and video hos."

"Give Me Everything" by Pitbull (with Ne-Yo, Afrojack and Nayer)
Employing the same seize-the-night ethos that make the Gaga and Britney songs work, Pitbull raps a "got it locked up like Lindsay Lohan" line as well as an "I might drink a little more than I should" line as Ne-Yo delivers the catchy chorus. You'll be playing this as you get ready to go out because you know you'll be hearing it when you get to where you're going.

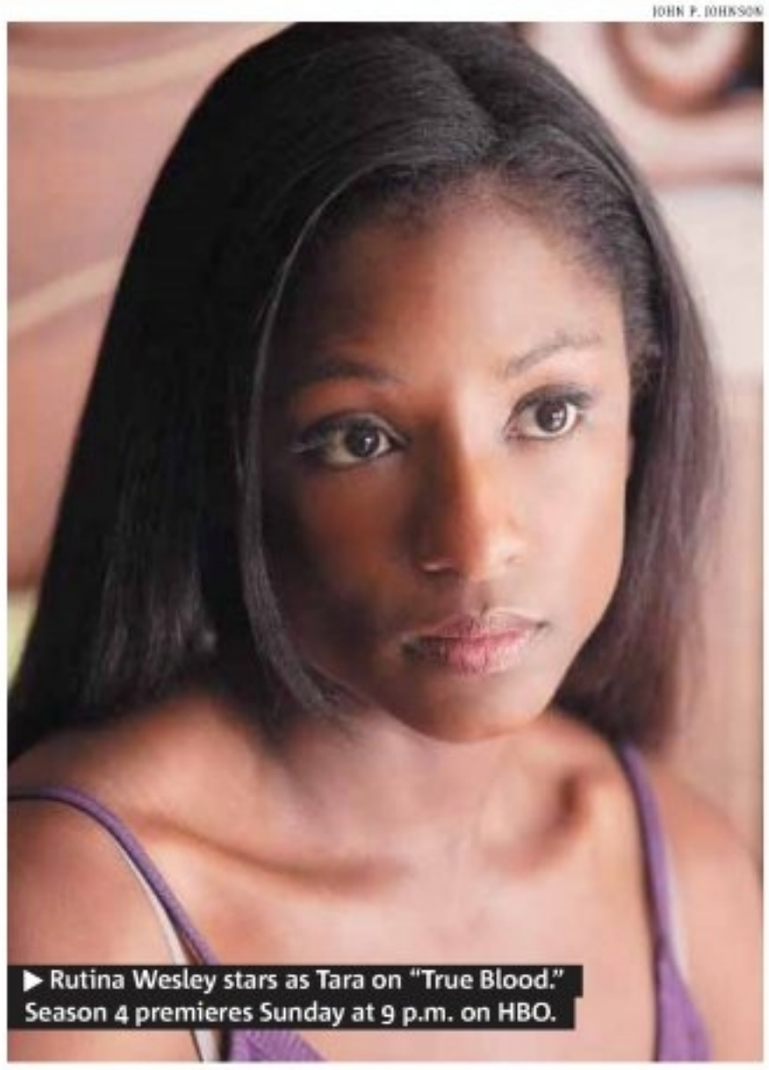
JOHN P. JOHNSON



▶ Rutina Wesley stars as Tara on "True Blood." Season 4 premieres Sunday at 9 p.m. on HBO.

FOR THE COMPLETE INTERVIEW VISIT:
WWW.METRO.US/TV

The voice of reason in a fantasy world

◗ Bad things happen to humans on 'True Blood' ◗ But Rutina Wesley, who plays Tara, wouldn't have it any other way ◗ The one script that shocked her

Alongside all of the sexy, scary supernatural goodness that makes "True Blood" as addictive as V — that's vampire blood, for those of you who haven't been spending the last three summers hanging out in Bon Temps — a couple of regular ol' humans are making a play for the series' best storylines. The frontrunner? Tara Thornton, best friend to vampire bait heroine Sookie Stackhouse, whose tenacity and no-nonsense attitude keep the show rooted in reality.

Tara, played with grit and vulnerability by Rutina Wesley, gets another chance to steal scenes as Season 4 picks up Sunday night. We checked in with the actress to find out what bad — and good! — things are in store.

Tara got mixed up with some bad vampires last season. Are things looking brighter now?
We are finally going to see happiness for Tara. She has started going to the shrink and she has learned how to love herself in a way that is beautiful and secure. It's nice to see because we have seen her suffer so much. She may have a smile on her face.

The writers really put Tara through the wringer. If you could take her out of their hands, what would you have her do?
I kind of like where they have been taking me. I really trust them. A lot of the time, I've been like, "Does she have to suffer so much?" and "Do I really have to cry in every scene?" But those are challenges, and I just have to cry for 18 hours to go through the rape scene and being violated and tied up.
And [then there were] the orgies. That is one script that I got and I'm like, "Wait, wait. Back up." But we did it and we did it as a group and we were all professional, freezing out there together. The director was like, "Hey, we are going to do this. Good luck. Let's have some fun." And we did. We all played together and it was nice.

Q&A

With all the vampires, werewolves, shape-shifters and fairies, does the show ever get too weird — or is that the fun of it?

Yeah, I think that is the fun of it. I love that we cross the worlds of fantasy and reality. I heard people say, "You guys have this level of humanity that I actually believe that vampires are walking today." So we have to keep it real. Because if we get too kooky, even if the situations are kooky, we can't play it as kooky. We have to play like, "I am kidnapped by a vampire. What would Rutina Wesley do?" I would be scared for my life. Yes, I will be quivering. I will be trying to run away by bashing his head. All the things that I did are true to life.

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

The feed ...

▶ On Fridays, Dorothy will post the best tweets she received during the week. You can always let her know what you think — good or bad — at @dorothyatmetro.

This week, the ladies (and one man) wrote in, cracking me up with their various pick-up lines for the newly single George Clooney, and @Shinji_Bourne made an excellent point about Christina Aguilera being the highest paid judge on "The Voice."

▶ @sarrible I met George Clooney once. Think we hit it off. In fact, I'm expecting him to call me, except he only has my old #. Dammit!

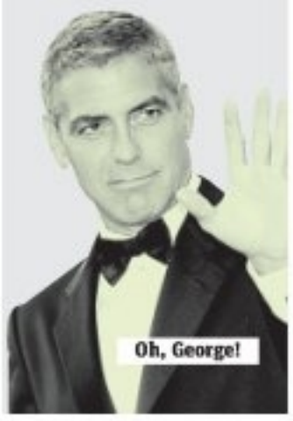
▶ @SilentButHeard I'd wear my glasses and say "you look like just as hot George Clooney, did you know that?"

▶ Stacey (via email): Let's be honest. I need to kick start my acting career. I will sign any agreement in exchange for 3 months with you and an engagement ring (which I get after we "break up"). Deal???

▶ Sentell (via email): We'd be the first to get married in my home state of New York!

▶ @heidiwmetcalfe oh #clooney, let's motorboat! and by that i mean, take you for a ride on my boat, in lake como. I WILL TWEET U A PIC OF MY TWO BIG BOATS.

▶ @Shinji_Bourne I'm no fan of "The Voice" or Christina but don't you think for once we should be praising a woman earning more than a man?



Oh, George!

The wedding will be televised

Kim Kardashian is said to be close to finalizing a deal that would put her wedding to Kris Humphries on TV with E!. "It will be a two-hour standalone special," a source told PopEater. "[Kim] is so used to having cameras follow her that she doesn't even notice them anymore. Kim really wants her fans to celebrate with her on the most important day of her life."

Khloe Kardashian and Lamar Odom's wedding was a ratings hit, with 3.2 million viewers tuning in.

In other televised weddings, Nick Lachey and Vanessa Minnillo announced their upcoming summer nuptials will be televised in a special on TLC (because it worked out so well for him the first time he tried that on "Newlyweds"). And as we previously mentioned, Hugh Hefner's planned TV wedding special will still air on Lifetime in July, but revamped so it will have a "runaway bride" theme.

So here we have Hefner publicizing his failed attempt at wedding No. 3 to a woman sixty years younger than he is and two celebs (one of whom got famous for making a sex tape) trying to make a buck from their second marriages by planning huge, wasteful, over-the-top nuptials.

And here people complain about gay people trying to ruin the "sanctity" of marriage ...

▶ Actress Lindsay Lohan attended a probation hearing at Airport Branch Courthouse Thursday in Los Angeles.

Here we go again

Lindsay Lohan headed back to court sooner than expected after she reportedly tested positive for alcohol, violating her probation, according to Radar Online. Lohan has been under house arrest at her Venice Beach condo. "Lindsay tested positive for alcohol. The judge in her DUI case, Judge Elden Fox, said she couldn't consume any alcohol while on probation. The probation department has prepared a report," a source says, adding that the L.A. Probation Department was expected to request that the judge take Lohan off of house arrest and place her in jail.

Le sigh. Has any economist looked into the theory that California is bankrupt because of all of the resources used to try to keep Lindsay Lohan in check?

Talking points

A Spidey seduction

Emma Stone and Andrew Garfield reportedly had so much fun filming "The Amazing Spider-Man" that they've continued their friendship even after production wrapped up — and have become more than friends, according to Us Weekly. "They got close during filming and have been hooking up," a source says. "They haven't gone public, but he's told his friends."

Monteith's troubled past

"Glee" actor Cory Monteith had such a bad drug problem as a teenager that his mother sent him to rehab at 19. Per a recent interview in Parade magazine, the 29-year-old admitted to skipping school to get drunk and smoke pot. "I burned a lot of bridges. I was out of control," Monteith told the magazine. At 19, his mother and friends sent him to rehab, although it didn't stick. "I stole a significant amount of money from a family member," Monteith recounted about what finally made him change. "I knew I was going to get caught, but I was so desperate."

▶ Osbourne

Osbourne: Off with his willy!

Sharon Osbourne says she wouldn't have reacted as calmly as Maria Shriver did to news that her husband, Arnold Schwarzenegger, had an illegitimate child with a housekeeper. "I would have chopped his willy off. Arnie's willy would have been down the disposal unit spinning around, that's where it'd be," Osbourne says, according to Hollyscoop. "I was really, really disappointed at him for being so horribly disrespectful and deceitful to do that in your own home. He can do whatever he wants in hotels on the road, whatever, knock yourself out, but you don't disrespect your family by doing it in your own home. To me it's just unthinkable."

"Cars 2"
Directors: John Lasseter, Brad Lewis
Cast: Larry the Cable Guy, Owen Wilson, Michael Caine
Rating: G Grade: ●●○○○

After Pixar's ambitious work on titles like "Ratatouille" and "Wall-E", this is a disappointment. The first "Cars" was arguably the weakest Pixar outing, but it at least had moments of pathos and the mature storytelling that the company is known for. "Cars 2" shoves Lightning McQueen to the sidelines of his own franchise in favor of an ill-conceived James Bond homage starring the comic relief character Mater. The material might have worked as a direct-to-DVD sequel exclusively for children, but as a big screen outing, it's a letdown.

The animation is stunning and there are a handful of funny sequences, but it's impossible not to compare it to other Pixar projects. Pixar set the bar high for animated fare, and at this point simple family escapism like "Cars 2" isn't quite enough. ● PHIL BROWN

'Bad Teacher' scores high marks

◐ Though it could stand to be a little more risque, this comedy succeeds thanks to a solid supporting cast

Having seen the red band trailer for Bad Teacher, we went in expecting a vulgar, funny swearfest along the same lines as "The Hangover." Instead, we got a funny, only somewhat vulgar movie that could have benefitted from a bit more raunch. It seems a bit afraid to go all the way.

Diaz's character, Elizabeth — desperate, pretty on the outside but ugly underneath — is an odd character to hang a comedy on, but she pulls it off. She'll never be the funny, fresh face she was in "There's Something About Mary" and "The Mask," and for this movie that's a good thing. The very slight patina of age and experience in her manner adds some extra desperation to Elizabeth. Having said that, this movie wouldn't work nearly as well without the supporting cast of Jason Segel, John Michael Higgins, Phyllis Smith from "The Office" and Molly Shannon. They don't exactly rescue this movie — it doesn't need rescuing — but without them "Bad Teacher" wouldn't be nearly as much fun.

Getting an education

In the new Cameron Diaz movie, "Bad Teacher," she plays — you guessed it — a bad teacher! More concerned with hooking up with a wealthy co-worker (played by her real-life ex, Justin Timberlake) than with her students, she doesn't make much of an effort to actually educate until she learns there's a cash bonus for the teacher with the highest classroom grade average.

Credit Card Debt?

ADVERTORIAL

Solutions that can help you get out of debt.

Tom Hill
CGA STAFF WRITER

Every three minutes another person falls behind on credit card debt. It's no wonder, since every major credit card company has nearly doubled the minimum monthly payment on consumers' bills. Federal Regulators forced the change because of their concern about the growing mountain of consumer debt, which stands at $2.17 trillion. Many consumers can only pay the minimum payment, which can take up to 30 years to pay off. Now, relief is in sight for millions of Americans.

Want to help Pizza Brain become a reality? Brian Dwyer on this weekend's fundraiser for his upcoming pizza parlor and memorabilia collection

For the last year, Brian Dwyer has been on an obsessive, all-out quest to promote his upcoming pizza parlor, Pizza Brain, scheduled to open in 2012 on Frankford Avenue in Fishtown.

Last May, his 10-member team created a giant pizza float powered by four cyclists for the annual Kinetic Sculpture Derby. On July 31, he plans to set an official Guinness Book of World Records mark for the largest pizza memorabilia collection.

But this Saturday could be Dwyer's most celebrated stunt yet: His indie cover band mini-fest — "Oh, For Pizza's Sake" — will land at Johnny Brenda's, featuring members of mewithoutYou (along with Dwyer) playing Neutral Milk Hotel's classic 1998 record, "In the Aeroplane Over the Sea."

"We've gone to great lengths to make a faithful recreation of the record," says Dwyer. "There's musical saws, trombone, trumpets — like, we're not just some people standing up there covering the songs. We know how important the record is to people, and we want to do it justice."

The event is also a chance for the avant-indie duo Pattern Is Movement to play an entire set of their early-'90s R&B favorites, from D'Angelo to Janet Jackson. "Clearly, these are pop songs we're going to play, and clearly our band is not a pop band," says Chris Ward of Pattern Is Movement. "But these songs speak to us in a profound way; they really were our bread and butter as kids. It's what we were raised on."

Proceeds from the show will go toward a $15,000 pizza oven to be installed in Dwyer's new restaurant. "One day, when you're eating a nice delicious pie at Pizza Brain," says Dwyer, always the promoter, "you can say, 'Hey I gave a couple bucks to make this happen.'"

'Drug War' not rocket science

Nixon's failed, racist War on Drugs began 40 years ago. Now, one in 100 adults and one in nine young black men are behind bars. Poverty and substance abuse go hand in hand. You can arrest the dealer, but there will still be a demand. Here's how to reduce illegal drug use and violence: legalize and tax drugs, reinvest money from police and prison expansion into supportive community programs and mandate that the minimum wage be raised to a living wage!

Speak for yourself

RE: FOR ALL THE SINGLE LADIES 6/23: I'm sorry that Jennifer Bellenoit was annoyed at Dr. Alpert's advice (The lowdown on the hookup 6/22). I'm even sorrier if she felt that she was speaking for all single ladies — because Dr. Alpert's advice spoke volumes to me, a woman who is in a "benefits" relationship and is ready to walk away from it. Speaking as a single woman who has a full-time job while in school, my life is never too busy to be in a relationship with someone who respects me enough to not use a lame excuse to have his "cake and eat it too."

TOMAR BENTON, VIA E-MAIL

Don't deal religious digs

RE: FOR ALL THE SINGLE LADIES 6/23: I read with alarm the letter from Jennifer Bellenoit in which she disagrees with Therapist Jonathan Alpert and calls him a "Quaker." Apparently, it's OK to use a religious group and their beliefs as a pejorative term in your newspaper. I'm shocked that you published such a letter. Would you publish one that refers to Wall Street bankers as "Jews"?

MB SIROKY, VIA E-MAIL

Metro passes the test

RE: TAKE CONTROL AND TAKE AN HIV TEST 6/22: As a homosexual I have to thank your publication for putting this issue out to the masses. It's something that everyone should take seriously, not just one segment of the population. It wasn't long ago that you could not talk about HIV and AIDS in the mainstream media. I always practice safe sex and go regularly for testing. I was just tested last week in fact, and if I were not terrified of needles I would do it again to show support and raise awareness for the issue.

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Sidestep making any binding agreements. There is an excellent chance that tomorrow you will see things from a different perspective.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. If you need assistance for completing a job, be careful regarding the help you solicit. You'll get plenty of volunteers, but they might be more interested in showboating.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Inner turmoil is likely to be generated when you find your trust in another has been sadly misplaced. Rely on past experience as your guide.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. One of the more critical areas in which you need to be monitored is your tendency to stick your nostrils into situations or problems where you've not been invited.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Keep a close eye on your resources and how you handle them. Complacency or indifference could carry a high price tag if you're not willing to keep tabs on your spending habits.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Don't let your ego get in the way of your relationships with others. There are certain facets of your personality that could cause you to blurt out things you don't mean.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. You'll do yourself a favor if you can face the fact that not everybody will be in accord with your viewpoints or positions. When you can accept this, you can accept others.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. It's nice to think well of people, but be wary of those whom you know from experience have exploited your generosity. People don't change, but you can become wiser.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Keep a lid on your intensity and try to operate on a more placid wavelength. Once your forcefulness is set into motion, it could be extremely difficult to control.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. The best way to figure out who is your worst enemy is to look in a mirror. Compulsive behavior that will prove to be self-defeating.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Operate as independently from others as you can because your way of doing things and theirs will be diametrically opposed to each other.

Flyers break up nucleus after two blockbuster trades Richards sent to Hollywood, Carter to Columbus Holmgren switches team's direction

No one, not even Peter Laviolette, expected this when he woke up.

But, around 4:30 p.m. Thursday, reports started circulating that the Flyers had broken up their nucleus. About an hour later, the team made it official with two press releases.

The first announced the Flyers had sent captain Mike Richards to L.A. in exchange for center Brayden Schenn, wing Wayne Simmonds and a second-round pick in Friday's draft.

A second one said that Jeff Carter had been dealt to Columbus for 21-year-old wing Jakub Voracek, along with a first- and third-round pick in 2011.

With the deals, the Flyers moved $100 million in salaries. Richards has nine years left on a 12-year extension he signed in 2007, while Carter inked an 11-year, $58 million deal last November. The team will save $7.57 million next season in salary cap space.

"Those are two hard phone calls to make," Flyers GM Paul Holmgren said. "I think the world of both of them. That's the hard part of the job."

GETTY IMAGES

The Flyers made the blockbuster trades to free up cap space for goaltender Ilya Bryzgalov, who they signed to a $51 million deal. Still, Holmgren tore out the engine on a team two years removed from a Stanley Cup finals appearance. Richards and Carter accounted for 23 percent of the offense last season, combining for 59 goals and 132 points.

Obviously, the message Holmgren was trying to send was that this is a fresh start for the Flyers.

"What we've done today is change the direction of our organization with these two moves," Holmgren said. "I've always said over the last few years that I like our team. I still like our team, it's just a different team."

MIKE GREGER
mgreger@metro.us

Summer fun

The Flyers haven't been shy about pulling the trigger on blockbuster deals in June. Here's a look at the three biggest:

1 June 20, 1992: Send six players, including Ron Hextall, plus two first-rounders and $15 million to Quebec for the rights to Eric Lindros.

2 June 26, 2009: Holmgren puts stamp on team by swapping Luca Sbisa, Joffrey Lupul, along with first- and third-round picks for Chris Pronger.

3 June 18, 2007: Not big at the time, but trading away just a first-rounder to Nashville for Kimmo Timonen and Scottie Hartnell was a steal.

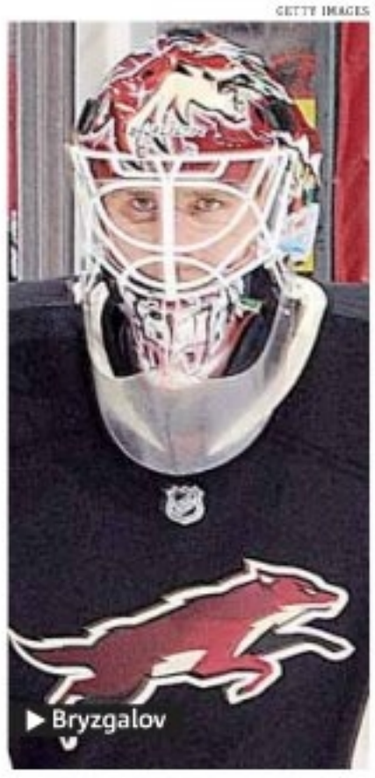
Snider, Holmgren get their man Sign Bryzgalov to nine-year deal Hasn't won playoff series since 2006

Ed Snider can sleep easy. From the minute his Flyers were bounced from the Stanley Cup playoffs, he made landing a top-notch goaltender his top priority.

"We are never going to go through the goalie issues we've gone through in the last couple of years again," the Flyers owner said shortly after losing to the Boston Bruins.

After signing Ilya Bryzgalov to a nine-year, $51 million deal Thursday, the Flyers believe they have their man. Of course, the move came at a hefty price. Bryzgalov will earn a reported $10 million next season. He'll have a $5.667 cap hit until he turns 40.

GETTY IMAGES



▶ Bryzgalov

17 Goals allowed by Bryzgalov last postseason, as Phoenix was swept by Detroit in four games during the first round.

"When you get a goalie you view as an upper-echelon goalie," GM Paul Holmgren said. "You know you have to pay him."

Bryzgalov was a finalist for the Vezina Trophy two seasons ago, while averaging 33 wins per season with Phoenix. However, the 31-year-old came up short in last year's playoffs and has only won one postseason series as a starting goaltender since 2006.

Sixers take chance on Trojan big man

Team takes Vucevic 16th overall ◐ Biggest player in entire NBA draft ◐ Should push Hawes for starting job

The hype leading up to Thursday's draft was about Andre Iguodala's departure. Sixers fans are going to have to settle for Nikola Vucevic's arrival.

While the Iguodala talks fizzled out in the days leading up to the draft, the Sixers attempted to address their gaping hole in the middle with the biggest player in the draft. Vucevic, who the Sixers took 16th overall, stands 6-foot-11 (260 lbs.) and has a massive 7-5 wingspan. He averaged 17.1 points, 10.3 rebounds and 1.3 blocks per game last season for USC.

"He has a very high basketball IQ, which I think is extremely important when you're going to play for Doug Collins," Sixers GM Ed Stefanski said.

Vucevic has the typical touch of a European big man and a nose for rebounding, Vucevic figures to push Spencer Hawes for the starting center job right out of the gate.

No deal

What happened to all those Iguodala rumors? With the lockout looming, he'll likely be a Sixer for some time now.

- The Sixers reportedly had no interest in Chris Kaman from the Clippers.
- The Warriors decided they want to give new coach Mark Jackson a chance with Monta Ellis.
- To the Lakers for Lamar Odom and Ron Artest ... C'mon, you really think the "Khloe and Lamar Show" would come to Philly?
- Wolves were never serious about giving up the No. 2 pick.

PREDICTING DEADLINE

In five weeks, baseball's annual hot stove will heat up once again. In the process, some of the biggest names in the big leagues will see their fantasy values impacted.

Figuring out who might be moved is vital. We can dump players who figure to lose playing time and add setup men who are going to become closers. Here are three situations to monitor.

No way, Jose

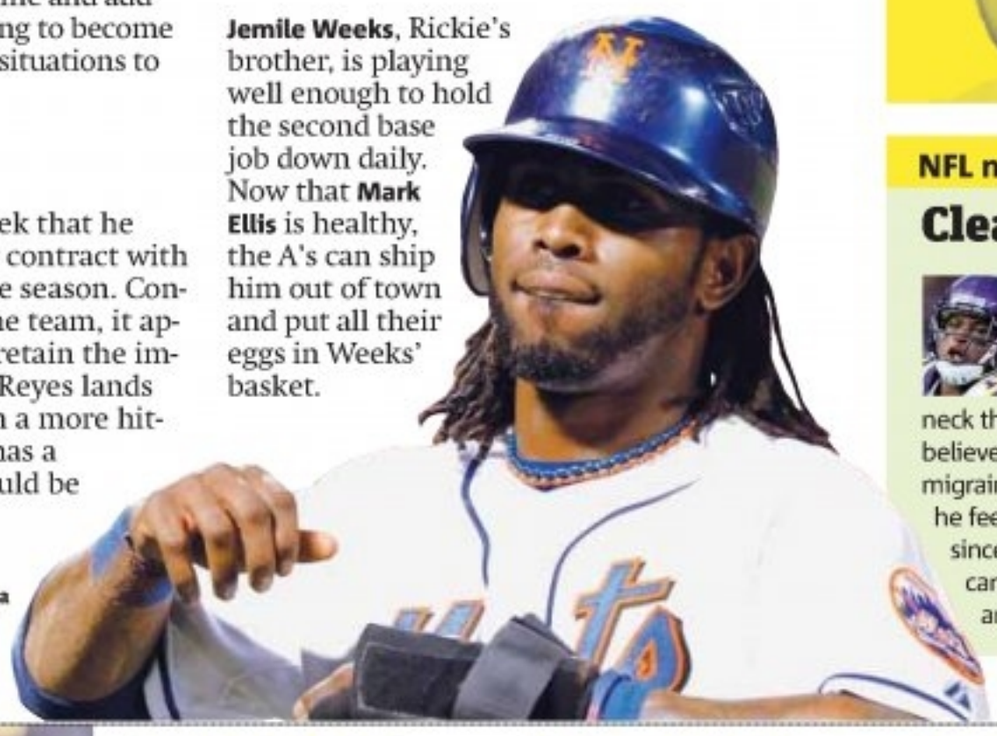
Jose Reyes said this week that he won't negotiate a new contract with the Mets until after the season. Considering the state of the team, it appears unlikely they'll retain the impending free agent. If Reyes lands on a team that plays in a more hitter-friendly park and has a stronger lineup, he could be even better.

The Bell tolls

Heath Bell has been one of the best closers in baseball over the last three seasons. But the Padres may not be able to afford to re-sign him this winter, so a trade is likely. Mike Adams would become the Padres' closer.

Little Rickie

Jemile Weeks, Rickie's brother, is playing well enough to hold the second base job down daily. Now that Mark Ellis is healthy, the A's can ship him out of town and put all their eggs in Weeks' basket.



Jose Reyes would benefit from a move out of New York.

Return of the Mack? A's make first visit to CBP

Philadelphia A's Historical Society gives Phils fans walk down memory lane ◗ Shantz to throw out first ball Sunday ◗ Phillies-A's, this weekend

Fifty-seven years since they slipped out of town broke and unwanted, the A's will return this weekend, making their first visit to Citizens Bank Park.

For those who didn't know the franchise was here — winning nine pennants and four World Series under Connie Mack — the Philadelphia A's Historical Society is happy to help.

"Kids come in with their grandfathers and usually ask two questions," said PAHS vice-president and baseball historian Dick Rosen. "When did the A's change their name to the Phillies? And if Shibe Park was close to Connie Mack Stadium? It bothers me when people forget."

The PAHS houses a museum in Hatboro that sells and displays A's memorabilia, including artifacts ranging from a tattered newspaper proclaiming the A's championship to a birthday greeting from FDR to Mack. They'll have a display table inside the ballpark this weekend and also auction off two of the current A's uniforms Sunday.

Prior to that game, 85-year-old Bobby Shantz — the 1952 AL MVP — will throw out the first ball. There's also a possibility that members of the Mack family, maybe his 97-year-old daughter, Ruth Mack Clark, will be on hand.

The series will stir memories for Rosen and others who were little boys when players like Eddie Joost, Gus Zernial and Elmer Valo wore the uniform with the elephant in the front.

"I don't follow Oakland that much, but I'll love seeing that uniform," Rosen said.
